SANDRA BROSS, RN, BSN

FOUNDER AND OWNER

BROSS AND ASSOCIATES PROSTHETICS

Sandra Bross has been a resident of Calabasas since her parents moved here when she was five years old. She grew up in the Mulwood neighborhood and was in the first class of Chaparral Elementary School. She remembers Arthur E. Wright and his wife and marching to his home in a parade to celebrate his 90th birthday.

Sandra went on to UCLA where she received her Bachelor of Nursing degree. Her career path of cardiac nursing at St. John's hospital in Santa Monica led her into medical sales where she met a representative in prosthetics. He encouraged her to start her own company. After taking the Dale Carnegie class, she took his advice and started Bross and Associates in 2008. Her business has continued to grow each year as she has the privilege of helping others in need.

Her company delivers high-definition, upper-limb silicone prosthetics from fingers to hands to arms and even toes. She and her certified prosthetist deliver myoelectric prosthetics and custom-crafted, one-of-a-kind prosthetics. Her newest selling products are body-driven hand prosthetics. She is the highest seller of this product in North America. All of these devices assist with the basic daily functions of life.

No single prosthesis can address the multiple deficits associated with upper-limb loss. It is never "just an amputation." An amputation is far more than "just." The loss of a part of your body is equated to the loss of a close family member. Most of Sandra's work is in helping Workers' Compensation clients. She also assists with personal injury and PPO clients.

Sandra uses her nursing background and nurse case management background to assist clients beyond their amputation. She views them each as a whole person—meeting their functional, emotional, social, and economic needs. Her mission statement is: restoring clients to wholeness. Her joy is in positively impacting her clients' lives.

Bross and Associates services clients from Bakersfield to Newport Beach and the Inland Empire. Sandra's clinical office is located in Glendale. Though she hopes people do not sustain injuries that require her services, Sandra is an incredible, life-changing advocate for those who experience amputations or require the assistance of prosthetic appendages. Check out her website where she shares famous people who have amputations.
